One Nation Media launches to challenge dominant narratives and assert the Islamic worldview

Johannesburg, South Africa — Friday 8th May, 2026 / Dhu al-Qidah 21, 1447 AH

One Nation Media (ONM), a new global Islamic media platform, launches this week with a clear mandate: to challenge dominant narratives and reassert Islam as a comprehensive framework for understanding and shaping the modern world.

Guided by its core mission — to awaken, mobilise and unite the Ummah — ONM positions itself not merely as an online news outlet, but as a driver of thought, direction and mobilisation.

Based in Johannesburg, ONM exists to advance a clear and unapologetic articulation of the Islamic worldview and its application to contemporary global realities. Its journalism moves beyond passive reporting, combining authoritative news with rigorous analysis and commentary to explain not just what is happening, but why it matters.

As a digital-first platform, ONM will produce a range of content including current affairs debate shows, in-depth video explainers, podcasts, short films, documentaries and breaking news. Its coverage will span the African continent and the wider Muslim-majority world, alongside key global flashpoints, delivering analysis with depth and clarity.

In a media environment shaped by ideological bias and the marginalisation of Islamic perspectives, ONM intervenes directly — shaping narratives, challenging falsehoods and exposing the failures of dominant political systems and ideological frameworks.

Dilly Hussain, Executive Editor of One Nation Media, said:

“One Nation Media is not here to fit into the existing media landscape. It is here to challenge it. Our aim is simple: to provide clarity, confront false narratives, and equip Muslims to engage global affairs with conviction, confidence and purpose.”

More than a media outlet, ONM aims to restore a sense of direction within the Ummah, advancing Islam as a comprehensive way of life and a framework for shaping the world.
